To answer the call of International Day of Sterilisation Sciences of WFHSS on April 10, the CSSD of Bazhong Central Hospital hosted an open house activity for the first time with a theme of “Guard Health and Quality Ensures Safety” to advocate the scientific knowledge on instruments reprocessing and sterilization, to deepen the understanding of CSSD, to emphasize the safety and effectiveness of sterile supply, and to create the atmosphere of “being supervised by the public, participated by the whole hospital and supported by the department”. Leaders, professionals from the Nursing Department and responsible persons from each functional department, several head nurses from the surgical team and representatives from nearby small and middle hospitals were invited to jointly enjoy the “journey of sterilization”.

At 9:00 a.m. on April 9th, the activity officially kicked off. Tong Jun, director of the Nursing Department, hosted the meeting where deputy dean Ma Changjun delivered a speech to objectively analyze the current situation of sterile supply and fully affirm the remarkable achievements made by our CSSD in recent years. The staff from CSSD introduced the development, personnel structure and facilities and equipment. We also played a video about the reprocessing of instruments.

Afterwards, all the invited visitors were dressed in standard precautions before entering the CSSD under the guidance of the staff. Team leaders respectively explained the processing procedures and answered questions on the spot. Through on-site observation, hands-on practices and interactive exchanges, the visitors witnessed the "gorgeous transformation" of contaminated medical instruments, experienced the rigor and professionalism of CSSD, changed the old concept of instruments reprocessing, and deepened the understanding of CSSD work. Everyone praised the positive working attitude and solid ability of CSSD staff.

Representatives from 8 medical institutions and 3 loaner companies also participated in the activity. They were also deeply impressed by the standardized work process, skilled expertise, advanced equipment and warm and thoughtful service of our CSSD. We signed cooperation agreements for sterile supply on the spot.

The successful holding of the "International Day of Sterilisation Sciences" has built a bridge of friendship between our CSSD and clinical departments and surrounding hospitals, enhanced mutual trust and understanding, improved the cooperation with each other, and greatly stimulated the enthusiasm of all staff in the CSSD. We aim to contribute due strength to the high-quality development of our hospital, lay a solid foundation for the construction of a regional sterilization supply center, and safeguard the health and safety of the citizens!
